Mayor, wife leave on holiday after jury nixes fraud charge

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry J. Bennett spent an hour or so at his office Friday morning after a Hancock County jury found him not guilty of fraud Thursday afternoon.

Afterwards, he and his family left town for a long weekend.

Among the many telephone calls he received Thursday and Friday—his wife Joan said it had taken him an hour to shave Friday morning because of the interruptions—was one from a New Orleans restaurant owner who said he had met Bennett only once but invited the Bennett family to an early Christmas dinner 'on the house.'

The atmosphere at City Hall seemed to be pretty much business as usual, but one employee commented that the not guilty verdict was the nicest Christmas present the Bennetts could receive.' "It's like a nightmare's over," she added. Bennett said he holds no animosity toward anyone and he's looking forward to working harder than he ever has to continue to improve the city of Bay St. Louis.

"There are still some things that should be cleared up. Bennett said.
"I owe this to the people of the city and the county since I've had such wide

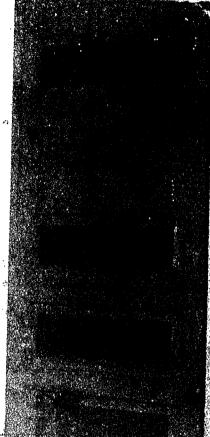

The main thing, Bennett said, is that he wants to reaffirm that he has never taken one penny from the city. "I have no intentions of ever doing

"If people will sit back and recall the incidents from the time I won this last election right up to this trial, they will realize what I'm talking about."

"We had votes recounted, we had ballot boxes gone through, we had poll books gone through for about three and a half days after the election. There was nothing to be found there because his winning the election was the choice of the people, Bennett said.

''After that,'' Bennett continued, "we had an investigation of the police

Although he did not die, Police Chief Douglas Williams underwent open heart surgery following a serious heart attack, Bennett explained.

Bennett said he was not allowed to at-tend any of the meetings investigating the police department.

After that, the city judge, the city attorney, the police chief and I were all investigated by the Mississippi Ethics Commission !!

All four men, City Judge Joseph Benvenutti, City Attorney Joseph Gex, Williams and Bennett still hold their offices with the city.
"When there was nothing they could find from those investigations, then my character was attacked." "What they will try to do next, I don't Ladner reported Donell Taylor, 30. 524 Sycamore Street had been shot in his legs at about 2:30 p.m., and was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled before Joseph Benvenutti, Bay St. Louis city judge on Wednesday for Rieux, Ladner said.

Ladner indicated he was still gathering details of the incident at press time.

The victim was apparently taken to the Hancock County sheriff's office by a bystander to report the alleged abouting and then taken by Mobile Medic to BCH
At the sheriff's office he was checked by Mike Willumitis, EMT, and Hancock County auxiliary deputy, and a preliminary report was made by Chuck James, Hancock County auxiliary deputy.

Willumitius said Taylor a have had several pellets in both legs.

Mary M. Perkins, HGH public relations director, said Taylor was struck in the left knee and lower leg, and right ankle by buckshot.

"He was treated in the emergency room at HGH and his condition was good and released," Perkins added.

COMMITTEE ELECTIONS

The amil election for ASC community committee members is being held this month, and ballots were malied Nov. 25 to all persons eligible to vote in the committee election, according to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office.

This is an election where farmers are elected by other farmers in the community.

The final date for mailing yoted ballots, or for bringing them to the county ASCS office, is Dec. 5.

Ballots will be counted on Dec. 8 in the county ASCS office in Poplarville.

The counting process is open to the public. Three regular members and two alternates will be elected.

On Dec. 15 the newly elected community committee members will hold a county convention to nominate and elect county committee member and alternates, Gennin pointed out.

"The newly-elected county committee member will serve for three years, the alternates for one year.

One of the main functions of the community committee members is to elect members of the ASC county committee.

They also assist the county committee throughout the year in the administration of federal farm programs locally, according to Gennin.

In Pearl River and Hancock Counties, the principal farm programs are Agricultural Conservation Programs, Compliance Program, Production Adjustment Program, and Price Support Program.

Gennin pointed out that any farmer who is eligible to take part in any ASCS Program is eligible to vote in the mail election. Voting eligibility is determined without regard to race, sex, color, religion, or national origin. Gennin said a list of known voters is on file at the ASCS office and is open for public inspection.

Grazing Period Opens
Pearl River and Hancock County farmers participating in the 1983 farm programs are now authorized to graze their conservation use acreage. The official grazing period opened Nov. 1, according to Gennin.

"The land must not be overgrazed," Gennin said, "and sufficient cover must be maintained to prevent wind and water erosion.

Conservation use acreage is cropland removed from production under the 1983 acreage reduction, paid land diversion and payment-in-kind programs. Harvesting is prohibited on the land, and grazing is permitted only during the six principal nongrowing months.

Gennin said the installation and maintenance of protective cover and conservation practices on land taken out of production was required to guard against soil erosion. Program Santa is coming to town this afternoon. He will be coming to the Hancock County Courthouse to collect all the wishes of young boys and girls. .

We are hoping many will come and visit with Santa, and let him know what they want for Christmas.

The event is sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, and there will be the Annual Christmas Tree Lighting scheduled to start at 4:30

We hope to see you with Santa.

While on the subject of Christmas, The Sea Coast Echo will continue publishing 'Letters to Santa' up until Christmas.

Just send them to Santa Claus, The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.

It helps Santa sometimes to know just what every boy and girl wants for Christmas.

Congratulations are in order for Patricia (Pat) Harvill on being elected president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

We have had the opportunity of working with Mrs. Harvill on many endeavours over the years, and we are sure she will do an outstanding job as president of the chamber.

She is very active in our community and always willing to offer a helping hand.

We wish her the best as president of the chamber.

Many families are now thinking about, or have already installed Christmas decorations.

We have noticed over the years that there always seems to be an increase in the number of fires during the Christmas season, and many are caused by decora-

We have been told of one decoration already causing a fire in Bay St. Louis this year.

Fire can be very dangerous, and some people use candles for decorations. If you do, please use extreme caution.

Tree lights are another cause of starting fire. Be sure those you use are safe.

Many families continue to use tree lights for many years, and some wiring becomes old and worn, and could cause electrical shorts.

Decorations are fine and we hope many families of our communities will display them this holiday season, but please with caution.

Fire safety urged in holiday season

PREVENT FIRE TRAGEDY (Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and The Sea Coast Echo.)

The holiday season is potentially a very dangerous one. Precautions against fire and adherence to general safety rules are of the utmost imporatance when Christmas preparations are being made, reminds the Mississippi State Medical Association.

Fire is the greatest single contributor to Christmas tragedy. The dangers of fire in the home are compounded during the holidays due to the presence of trees, trimmings, lights, candles, and paper decorations which would not normally be in the home.

The primary causes of home fires during Christmas are lighted candles, fireplaces, trees which become too dry, and faulty electrical connections. Common sense and adherence to a few basic safety rules can drastically reduce the number of home fires. The following guidelines should be used to assure a safe and merry Christmas:

Make an emergency plan to use if fire breaks out.

* Have telephone numbers of fire and mergency squads hand

one. A fresh tree is green. Its needles are hard to pull from its branches and do not break when bent between your fingers. Its trunk is sticky with resin, and a shower of needles does not fall to the ground when it is shaken.

The tree should be placed away from fireplaces, radiators, and other heat sources. It should also be out of the way of traffic and not block any doorways.

The tree, after two inches of its trunk is removed, should be mounted in a sturdy, water-holding stand with widespread legs and fastened to the walls or ceiling with thin guy wires which will be nearly invisible. The base should be kept full of water while the tree is indoors because heated rooms dry trees out rapidly, creating fire hazards.

CONGRESS IN REVIEW

As Congress adjourned for the year, it gave us a chance to reflect on the record of the 1983 congressional ses-

In my judgment, the record has to be considered a mixed bag.

There were, to be sure, occasional bursts of bi-partisan cooperation, especially on four major issues: the social security package, the MX missile, Central America and the defense appropriations bill.

Lawmakers approved a $250 billion defense bill that includes money to Build MX missiles and B1 bombers, two new weapons systems which have been debated for years. Also approved was a total of $24 million in covert military aid to rebel freedom fighters in Nicaragua.

Along with that spirit of cooperation, however, came a few m philosophical bickering over whether to cut the deficit by reducing spending or raising taxes and over the government's role in housing and employment.

The House refused by a ten-votemargin to consider a last-minute tax "reform" bill which carried $10 billion in new taxes. The most debated part of the bill involved proposed restrictions on the use of industrial development bonds, a method pioneered by the State of Mississippi to entice industry into the

Fortunately, the use are much honds was protected by the House vote.

Despite problems with the deficit, progress has been made in holding down inflation to 3.2 percent, while interest rates have come down and the Gross National Product has gone up. Unemployment is still too high, even though it has dropped two points in the past few months to 8.8 percent.

There were other areas this year in which the House Democratic leadership showed total irresponsibility. They were: refusing to deal with criminal law reform, bankruptcy and immigration. All three were complicated by a Supreme Court Thing last summer which struck down the legislative veto as a means of controlling the bureaucracy.

Immigration may be the most pres ing of these issues because an estimated 72,000 refugees en route to the U.S. will get food, lodging and transportation help from the U.S. government. While we are not anxious to end America's reputation as a "melting pot" for different peoples and cultures, we must consider anew our own citizens and their needs before we cater to illegal aliens.

The new year will present a variety of opportunities for Congress to deal constructively with such issues as cutting the deficit and federal spending, natural gas de-regulation and universal telephone service. These will be opportunities we must not ignore.

CATTLE FEEDING

High feed costs and low cattle prices. These are familiar words to cattle producers. Because of expensive feed costs and cheap cattle prices it would be a good idea for the cow-man to develop a sound feeding program.

As cattle producers search for ways to lower their winter feed costs, one practice that should be given consideration is grouping the cow herd.

Overfeeding underfeeding is expensive, but most beef herds end up doing it anyway. This occurs when cattle are grouped together. (Dry cows and cows nursing calves running together).

Dry mature pregnant cows require 14.5 to 16.5 pounds of by research results shows that dry matter and .86 to 1.05 pounds of crude protein daily. Cows nursing calves require 20.5 to 24.9 pounds of dry matter and 1.90 to 2.70 pounds of crude protein per day the nutritional requirements, for the two groups are different. If a ration is fed based on dry cow requirements you end up underfeeding the cows with calves. If you feed a ration based on cows nursing calves you overfeed the dry-cows and feed costs increase. Because dry cows have a lower daily nutrient requirement, a beef producer can utilize feeds such as crop residues, frosted grass, low stitute, an increasing number quality hay, or other lower of mobile home buyers are quality feed until the last third younger, more affluent and of pregnancy. He testified that the renovation work was done in late 1977 and early 1978 to make room for a new baby in the household.

He said the family moved into the addition in May, 1978.

"It was my Mother's Day present to my wife," he said.

Bennett testified that his brother-inlaw Lawrence (Skeet) Starita also worked on the addition, along with Starita's sons Lawrence Jr. and Benny, Roger Sprouse, Alfred Sills and Billy Johnson.

Sprouse is an employee of Bay St. Louis Street Department, Sills works for the Gas Department and Johnson is Superintendent of Utilities. Bennett said that Fayard, Sprouse, Bennett said that James Bennett did some finishing work on the addition in mid-April, 1978.

He did not know James Bennett, the mayor said, but knew several people for whom Bennett had done carpentry work.

He was not sure who gave him James Bennett's telephone number.

"The second day he was there. I went home and the man was obviously drinking," Bennett said.

William Farve was with him."

"I paid them for their work," he said. Bennett testified that he knows wife-who Stevenson testified still lives with him-works for the city.

On cross-examination, Johnson noted that Fayard had testified that he did all the refinishing work except for a door threshold, but Bennett said some molding and baseboard finishing remained when he hired James Bennett in April.

Bennett did not remember who put in the door threshold. "It was installed before we moved into the room.' Bennett said the materials for the addition were purchased at several places and were paid for in cash or by check. He said his house was robbed in late October or November, 1982, and that were taken along with other items. The entire addition, he said, cost about $4,300.

Bennett said he did not tell Robert King that James Troy Bennett and William Farve worked on his house because 'he is one of the most indignant people I've ever met.'

"I didn't think I was obliged to talk to him at all."

"I don't remember how many names I gave him because we ended up in an argument."

Character witnesses for Bennett included The Rev. Francis Theriault from St. Augustine Seminary; Sylvan J. Ladner Jr., former city commissioner and sheriff; Sam Perniciaro, Hancock County supervisor for District 4; and Douglas J. Williams, Bay St. Louis police chief.

Twice Owen asked Judge Thomas for a directed verdict of not guilty, once after the prosecution rested its case and again when defense testimony was completed.

The state failed to prove its case, Owen said, and 'there's a horrible risk of political conviction.'

Thomas overruled both motions. "As I see it, there are obvious credibility issues, and credibility issues must go to the jury," the judge ruled. In closing arguments, Owen asked the jury to return a quick verdict,

I am the King of Siam and victim of an absurd error for which someone will surely pay. On the other hand, I would settle for a good home real quick. They do call me King around here at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland, but I'm really a very lovable guy! I just think it's purrriect to be held and have my belly scratched. I'm a grey and blege siamese, with crossed blue eyes of course, about 10 months old. Electrical apprentice job training offered

The Mississippi Associated Builders and Contractors is offering 'electrical apprenticeship training in the Gulf Coast area.

"Apprenticeship is a wellplanned, carefully designed education program. It enables applicants of at least 18 years of age who are physically capable of performing the work of the trade to become highly skilled craftsmen within a prescribed period of time," an association spokesman says.

Applicants must have a high school diploma with a strong math background and will be tested by the State Employment Service and must also provide a doctor's certificate, the spokesman notes.

'The Mississippi ABC Electrical Apprenticeship Program is federally approved and registered by the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U.S. Department of Labor and is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer," the spokesmań explains.

It combines on the job training with related theory instruction. An apprentice will learn how a task is performed and why the task is perform-

Applications and additional information can be obtained by applying in person at the Pascagoula branch of the Mississippi State Employment Service.

All completed applications and required information for the Mississippi ABC program must be returned to the previously mentioned location no later than Dec. 7.

Applications received after this date, or incomplete applications cannot be considered for current apprentice job placement, the spokesman

GOOD OLE BOYS-How do we get out'a here, Chester? I don't know, Lester. Well why don't we ask them out there, Chester? Why don't you do that, Lester. Golly, I never talked to a bunch of humans before, Chester. Well go ahead and do it anyway, Lester, what the heck—it's our only chance. OK, Chester... if someone wants a couple of male Persians about three months old, very lovable, please call the Bay-Waveland Humane Society volunteer at 467-0475 for adoption information soon because we don't have that much time left and we really, really want a good home with food and love because now we're at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland where we can't run and climb because we're in a cage... whew! That was good, Lester. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Pennsylvania duo jailed after arrest at HGH

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Bay St. Louis Police Department reports two Pennsylvania men are in Hancock County Jail charged with grand larceny of an automobile. Chief Douglas Williams of the department said Friday that John Coscia, 22, and John Paar, 19, both of Easten, Pa., are jailed without bond and awaiting extradition to Pennsylvania on the charges.

He explained the duo were arrested by Bay police near Hancock General Hospital on Dunbar Avenue Friday after hospital security officers reported to the department that two men were loitering near the facility.

Officers Alfred Reyer and Wilbert Dorsey of the department arrived at the hospital where they questioned the two, Williams said.

A vehicle identification check by the officers through the National Crime Information Network found that the small foreign convertable sports car the two Pennsylvania men were in was apparently stolen in Palmer Township, Pa. on Nov. 26, the chief reported.

Chief Investigator Murray Ladner and Investigator Joe Pica are conducting a probe in the case, Williams add-

CAR FOUND Williams also reported a 1983 model car stolen in Ohio in August was found Friday by Bay police in the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center parking lot.

The car, an Oldsmobile, was apparently abandoned in the lot on Blue Meadow Road, he said.

Participating in the recovery of the vehicle were Ladner and Capt. Robert Butler, both of the department.

Q: My neighbor is a hateful person who has told me that he will shoot my cat if he catches her in his yard again. My cat is a sweet little kitty which doesn't hurt a thing, but my neighbor is mad because I called the police to quiet down one of his late-night parties last month. I'm scared that my neighbor will kill my cat. Isn't that against the law?

A: Torturing or needlessly killing an animal is a crime in Mississippi, and you would have the right to seek criminal prosecution of your neighbor if he kills or mistreats your cat.

Furthermore, you would have the right to sue your neighbor in a civil court to damages for any harm he has caused

However, as a practical matter, you have to live next door to this person, and the best advice is to try to avoid these squabbles before they become so serious. The law is a vehicle to punish a wrongdoer and to compensate a victim for that wrong, but

Do whatever you can as a citizen and a human being to reconcile with your neighbor. In the meantime, keep your cat locked up or fenced in so that your neighbor can't make good his threat.

A: The United States Constitution requires the state to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that a criminal defendant is guilty of the crime charged. Until the state can make such proof, the defendant is presumed to be innocent.

One of the highest legal, ethical and moral responsibilities of a lawyer is to ensure that this fundamental right is preserved.

The lawyer's duty is to defend the client zealously, within the bounds of the law, and to see that the client has his day in court.

It is true that this presumption of innocence has shielded some notorious criminals, but it also protects all citizens, including you and me.

The greenhouse also provides high relative humidity. Most homes and apartments have low humidity. You can increase the humidity around the plant by placing the plant in a coaster filled with gravel. Add a little water so the evaporation of moisture from the rocks provides additional humidity. Keep the water level just below the bottom of the pot to avoid soggy soils which cause root rot. The poinsettia does not like sudden

To balance or improve a figure, stripes may be used both vertically and horizontally in the same garment. You can also create figure illusions by cutting stripes on the diagonal or true bias. Advanced planning is important in selecting the stripe that looks smartest on you and one that is practical.

When working with a striped fabric, choose a dress pattern with few pattern pieces for best results. Also, check to make sure that the pattern envelope states whether the pattern is suitable for striped fabrics.

Be sure that your thread and zipper are matched to the background color of the striped fabric. If your pattern has a self-fabric trim on such details as colars, cuffs, tabs, etc., cut them on the bias for an especially pretty look. A contrast collar and cuffs are smart looking, too, and very

NEW SCIENCE SERIES

''Spaces,'' a magazine series designed to encourage minority children to consider science and technology as career choices, can be seen at 5:30 p.m. weekdays beginning Monday, Dec. 12 on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The six-part series will conclude on Monday, Dec. 19 and will begin again on Tuesday,

Aimed at an audience of nine to 13 years, the series highlights the accomplishments of blacks, Hispanics, Asians and native Americans in science and demonstrates the importance of science and technology in daily life:

"Spaces" incorporates a variety of concepts to emonstrate that science is a significant part of everyone's

"Conexiones" shows how science is tied to everyday activities, including sports, games and the arts.

"Namedroppers" presents the historical contributions of minority scientists, and "Mindblowers" tracks future trends in science.

Each half-hour program revolves around a specific theme: space, the body, com-puters, ecology, energy and communications. The magazine format allows diverse topics to be covered within each program. The field-produced minidocumentaries, comprising about two-thirds of each program, present portraits of minority scientists and

Fire ants more of a problem around homes than in fields

By DARLENE UNDERWOOD Hancock County

Extension Home Economist Perhaps the greatest danger to Mississippians from fire ants is around the home, rather than in the soybean and cotton fields.

The fire ant problem as it relates to agriculture is greatly misunderstood, if not overated, according to one expert in the state.

Dr. Ted Brook, entomologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says the tiny insects are more of a nuisance than anything else.

"Basically their greatest impact on agriculture is due to the size of their nests. The nests can damage harvesting equipment and interfere with mowing," Brook says.

Brook reports the growing concern about fire ants in recent years is due largely to a lack of understanding.

'We've had fire ants in Mississippi since the beginning of history, it's just that they weren't imported fire ants," Brook notes.

The southern fire ant, the one that has always been here, is suspected of all the forms of destruction attributed to the imported fire ant except one, according to the Handbook of Pest Control.

The primary difference, in terms of agricultural significance, between the southern fire ant and the imported fire ant is in the size of the nests they build.

The southern fire ant builds hundreds of small nests per acre, while the imported fire -Monday, Dec. 19 - AARP ant builds fewer, larger nests-- sometimes as many as 60 per acre.

The large nests of the imported ant can damage harvesting equipment. And if a farmer has to skip an area in which the fire ants have built a nest, obviously that area won't get harvested.

But, Brook points out, the ants don't build their nests in the middle of soybean fields as 'There may be a few nests around the edge of a field, but it's not as though they're going oyer a 500-acre field," Brook

Brook also discounts recent reports from another southern state that the use of pesticides resulted in a 15-fold increase in the number of imported ants within 18 months.

There are a couple things wrong with such a statement, according to Brook.

The greatest nuisance humans face from fire ants comes when they build their nests next to a building or an air conditioner. The moisture of the nest will rust metal and swarm on a child or small First, no one would animal and kill it are largely unfounded, unless the child or animal falls onto the nest, in which case severe bites are likely to occur, according to

> Brook. Here in Hancock County there have been no reports of death or serious injury from fire ant bites, but many parents remain concerned about fire ant nests in their yards or in the children's play

Brook recommends pouring an approved chemical directly onto the fire ant nest and spray from a garden hose will be enough to force a colony of allowing it to soak in. Warning children to stay away from the ant nests is also a good idea. Sometimes just knocking down a small nest with the ants to move somewhere else. For more information about ridding your yard of fire ants, call the County Extension Of-

Pets are not good Christmas gifts

533-7303.

Pets are among America's most ill-advised Christmas gifts. Soft-eyed pupples, and frolicsome kittens, gleefully tumble in pet shop windows. Their appeal is tremendous. The sales are high.

A month later, many of those same delightful animals will be cowering miserably in the cages of the local animal pound. Others will already be dead-: unwanted and abandoned to bleak winter.

The simple point here is that although many people find great happiness in giving a young animal as a Christmas gift, not everybody is so happy about receiving one. And it takes exceptional courage to reject the gift of a helpless. ribbon-festooned kitten on Christmas morning.

Usually, the animal is animals—some purebeed, received with gracious some sprightly mongreis, thanks, and then somehow Your gift of joy will also disappears in a few weeks become an errand of mercy; Usually, the animal is Responsible people burdened with an animal they don't really want take it to a respectable shelter. And shelters all over America have experienced a great: population explosion during the weeks immediately after Christmas for many decades now.

Humane jurisdictions require that animals in shelters be either adopted by new owners, or humanely euthanized. Other jurisdic-tions also force animals to be funnelled off to experiment labs and other cruel adds. Anyone considering systeor the receiver is capable of giving the animal all the care and attention it deserves. Too often, kittens and pupples are given to children who are wildly infatuated about the pet, but are not mature enough to insure that the animal is properly tended. Also, 'companion' animals are now frequently given to older people who have neither the strength, nor the resources to provide basic care for those pets;

If somebody you love really wants an animal, and is mature enough to provide it with good care and attention, why not agree between you to wait a few days, or weeks, after Christmas. Go shopping around the animal shelters in early January, and it's likely you'll find many appealing

Story Hour titles listed

Every Thursday at 10:30 i.m. story hour is conducted at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis. Story hour is a service provided by the Hancock County Library System, for pre-school children from the ages of three to six.

Story hour begins with Binky Gets a Car' by Dick Gackenbach. "Two Little Monkeys," a finger play, will be performed between stories. The second book to be read is, 'If I Were' by Barbara Shook Hazen. A flannel board story, "The Great Big Enormous Turnip," will be presented next.

"Peasant's Pea Patch," a motion picture film, concludes the program, according to Becky Mitchum, children's librarian.
